2018 MIAMI OAGC FAIR FLOWER SHOW

Glossary

Pictures and descriptions can be found on the OAGC website: www.OAGC.org and in the OAGC Exhibitors' and Judges' Handbook. If you have questions, please contact one of the show chairs.

NOTE: (-) before a definition indicates that it is specific to the 2018 Shows. (++) indicates more design options.

-Accessory: Anything used in an arrangement that is not plant material, the container, or the mechanics. For good proportion and scale, the accessory must be integrated in design and be 40% of the design height.

-Creative Design: Usually show restraint in the amount of plant material and the number of components used. The design may have one or more focal areas or none at all. There may be more than one point of emergence and may include some abstract qualities. Rules, styles or traditional patterns do not bind these designs.

-Dried Designs: These can be creative, traditional, ikebana or period. Flowers which have been dried by any method, grasses, pods and seed heads can be used. Materials should have no traces of dust, tears, worn-out foliage, mildew, cobwebs or blemishes.

++Horizontal Design: A Horizontal Design is a stretched and elongated composition of two triangles placed base to base. For this show, the maximum width is 24 inches.

++Mass Design: Arrangements in which a large mass of flowers is emphasized rather than the individual flower heads. It always has a fullness and minimum voids. Mass arrangements may be traditional, contemporary, or period bouquets.

-Miniature and Small Arrangements: Proportion and scale are the most important principles of design to be considered. Emphasis is on simplicity of numbers, kinds of materials and use of color. No single flower should be larger than one-third of the size of the container. The height of the container should be no more than one-third the height of the arrangement. A miniature design is not to exceed the size specified in the schedule (usually 3" or 5") in any direction – this includes diagonal. A small design is not to exceed 12" in any direction but is larger than a miniature design.

-Niche: a boxlike, recessed space. Use stated size. The display may be creative, traditional, or ikebana. Still life displays and hanging designs are often staged in niches. Scale and proportion should be balanced with $\frac{3}{4}$ of the niche as main design.

-Predominately means the most important element in the design; the main emphasis; the outstanding feature.

-Satellitic is a 3-dimensional creative design, with only one smaller design of the same color, form and/or texture placed near its base, having a curving connective line that becomes a vital part of its rhythmic pattern.

The main, or larger design should be placed in a tall, creative container with the dominance of plant materials rising from the top of the container. Color, form, and/or textures of the plant materials found in the main design must be repeated in the smaller design.

The curving connective line of plant or man-made material must be placed in or near the container's top, curving downward to one smaller container or object placed near the base of the main design. The curving line must be in scale to the other two components.

-Still Life: is a grouping of plant materials and other components by which a story is told or a theme interpreted, more by the objects than through the plant materials. There is a realistic feeling. Objects are chosen for form, texture, size and their ability to convey a mood, feeling or a message. Each object reacts upon and influences all the others. Utilitarian objects do not lose their identity.

Objects together express a theme. Miniature figures are not to be used, rather each is actual size and true to its function with plant material being subordinate. Fruit, flowers, and plant materials do not make a traditional floral design. A completed floral design is never found in a still life.

-Terrarium: A Terrarium is a clear glass or plastic container of many shapes and sizes, large enough to hold three or more thriving plants, requiring moist environment, arranged in a landscape effect. The container must have a lid. Accessories are permitted.

-Underwater Design: An Underwater design is a creative design, with part or parts placed underwater to create interest. Water magnifies the materials, creating an element of interest and surprise, so scale must be given consideration when selecting plant materials.

++Vertical Design: This design has an overall appearance of power and strength. The vertical style most often requires a focal point either near the top of the arrangement or the rim. In a true vertical design, the materials used will remain within the width of the container and very seldom will it extend beyond the sides. The finished product will be a tall floral arrangement. A vertical arrangement is one that carries the eye top to bottom like a column. It can be compact or wider, but the concept is that the eye travels up and down and not side to side.
